

Berbere Lamb and Chickpea Stew •

Ingredients

Dried chickpeas	2 cups	Tomato paste	6 Tbsp.
Kosher salt (for soaking)	3 Tbsp.	Kosher salt (for stew)	1 Tbsp.
Lamb shoulder*	3 lbs.	Chicken broth or lamb stock	3 cups
Kosher salt (for lamb)	1 Tbsp.	Diced tomatoes	28 oz. (2 cans)
Black pepper (for lamb)	1 tsp.	Dried apricots	1½ cups
Vegetable oil	¼ cup	Fresh cilantro	1 cup
Onions, large	2	Fresh lemon juice	½ cup
Garlic cloves	8-10	Honey	3 Tbsp.
Berbere spice blend	3½ Tbsp.	Harissa	for table

Beef chuck shoulder may substitute for lamb (same method and timing)

Directions

Night Before: Combine chickpeas, water, and 3 Tbsp. salt in a large bowl. Cover and refrigerate overnight (8-12 hours). — Preheat oven to 300°F — Drain and rinse soaked chickpeas — Pat dry lamb and cut into 1½" cubes — Season lamb with 1 Tbsp. salt and 1 tsp. pepper — Dice onions — Mince garlic — Chop apricots into ¼" pieces — Measure all spices — Chop cilantro

1. Heat 6-quart enameled dutch oven over medium-high heat. Add 2 Tbsp. oil. Working in 3-4 batches to avoid crowding, brown lamb cubes on multiple sides until deeply caramelized, about 8-10 minutes per batch, adding more oil as needed. Transfer browned lamb to a large bowl and set aside.
2. Reduce heat to medium. If pot is dry, add final portion of oil. Add diced onions and cook, stirring occasionally, until softened and golden brown, about 8-10 minutes. Add minced garlic and cook, stirring constantly, for 1-2 minutes until fragrant.
3. Add 3 Tbsp. berbere to the pot. Stir constantly for 45-60 seconds until spice is darkened and very fragrant. Add tomato paste and stir constantly, scraping to prevent scorching, for 2-3 minutes until paste is brick-red and caramelized.
4. Add remaining ½ Tbsp. berbere and 1 Tbsp. salt; stir to combine. Immediately add chicken broth and use a wooden spoon to scrape bottom of pot vigorously, releasing all browned bits. Add diced tomatoes with their juices. Bring to a simmer.

5. Return browned lamb and any accumulated juices to pot. Add drained chickpeas and 1 cup chopped apricots. Stir to combine. The liquid should come about $\frac{3}{4}$ of the way up the solids; add additional broth if needed.
6. Bring to a full simmer on stovetop. Cover with tight-fitting lid and transfer to pre-heated $300^{\circ}F$ oven.
7. Braise for $3-3\frac{1}{2}$ hours, checking at $2\frac{1}{2}$ hours. Lamb should be pull-apart tender and chickpeas should be creamy. If liquid level seems low at the $2\frac{1}{2}$ hour check, add $\frac{1}{2}$ -1 cup hot broth. If stew seems too liquidy, crack lid slightly for final $30-45$ minutes.
8. Remove from oven. If sauce needs reducing, place uncovered pot on stovetop over medium heat and simmer for $5-10$ minutes until thickened to coat the back of a spoon. If desired, skim excess fat from surface.
9. Stir in remaining $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped apricots, fresh cilantro, lemon juice, and honey. Taste and adjust seasoning with additional salt if needed. Let rest for $10-15$ minutes before serving.
10. Serve over couscous or cooked rice with harissa on the side.

Equipment Required

- 6-quart enameled dutch oven with tight-fitting lid
- Large mixing bowl (for soaking chickpeas)
- Large bowl or plate (for browned lamb)
- Cutting board and sharp knife
- Wooden spoon or heatproof spatula
- Measuring cups and spoons
- Ladle
- Timer

Mise en Place

- Soak chickpeas the night before in salted water
- Allow 45-60 minutes total for prep work on day of cooking
- If using whole lamb shoulder, trim excess fat but leave some for flavor
- Cut lamb into uniform $1\frac{1}{2}$ " cubes for even cooking
- Prep all aromatics and measure all spices before beginning—once you start browning, the process moves quickly
- Have broth ready and warm for easier deglazing

Ingredient Tips

- Lamb shoulder is ideal for braising due to marbling and connective tissue; leg meat is leaner and won't be as tender
- Quality berbere blends vary significantly in heat level and complexity; taste yours to gauge intensity
- Ethiopian berbere typically contains fenugreek, cardamom, black pepper, coriander, cumin, chiles, ginger, and warm spices
- San Marzano or fire-roasted diced tomatoes add extra depth
- Turkish or California apricots are ideal; avoid overly sweet or sugared varieties
- If making homemade lamb stock, this elevates the dish significantly

Preparation Tips

- Don't rush the browning—deep caramelization is the foundation of flavor
- Work in small batches; crowding the pot steams meat instead of browning it
- The tomato paste will threaten to scorch; keep stirring and scraping constantly during step 3
- Vigorous deglazing in step 4 is critical—every bit of fond adds flavor
- Starting the braise at a full simmer on the stovetop ensures immediate cooking when transferred to oven
- If your dutch oven lid doesn't seal tightly, cover pot with foil before adding lid to minimize evaporation
- Check liquid level at 2½ hours; ovens and pots vary, so adjustment may be needed
- Lamb texture varies by cut quality; check tenderness and extend cooking if needed
- The stew will continue to thicken as it rests; it should be slightly looser than desired final consistency when removed from oven

Make Ahead & Storage

- This stew benefits from sitting; make up to 3 days ahead and refrigerate
- Fat will solidify on surface when chilled, making it easy to remove if desired
- Reheat gently on stovetop, adding broth if needed to restore consistency
- Add finishing ingredients (cilantro, lemon juice, honey) only when reheating to serve
- Freezes well for up to 3 months; thaw overnight in refrigerator
- If freezing, slightly undercook (reduce time by 30 minutes) as reheating continues cooking
- Leftover stew thickens significantly; thin with broth or water when reheating

Serving Suggestions

- Serve over basmati rice, couscous, or with crusty bread
- Accompany with harissa for heat, plain yogurt for cooling contrast
- Garnish with additional fresh cilantro, toasted sliced almonds, or sesame seeds
- A simple cucumber-tomato salad provides refreshing contrast
- Pairs beautifully with full-bodied red wines or Moroccan mint tea
- Consider topping with a poached or fried egg for brunch service
- Leftovers make excellent filling for savory hand pies or empanadas
